A tiny trace

Doyle!!

Doyle!

Don't worry...

Doyle!!

Ah, yes... maybe it was covered by his hair so you couldn't see...

But does this collar belong to Doyle? He didn't wear that awhile ago...

Ah?

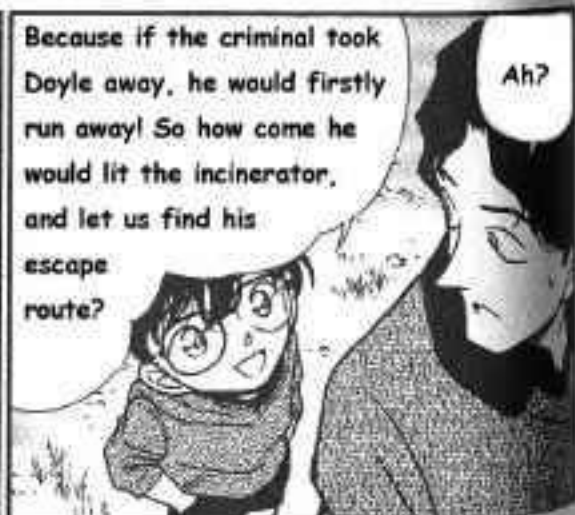

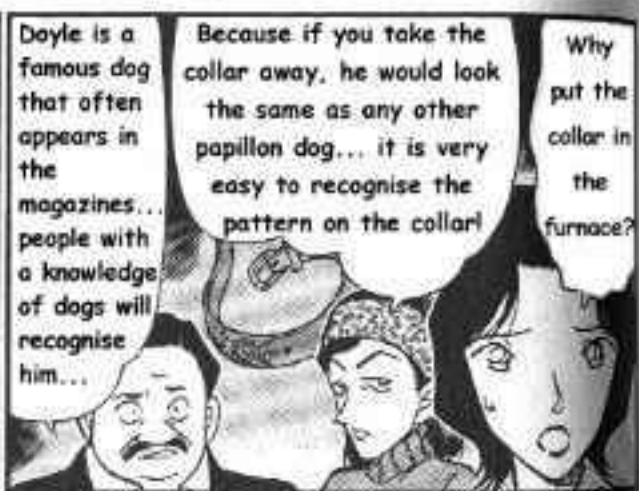

The only thing burnt is the collar... inside the incinerator there's no corpse of a dog...

This collar was brought by my grandfather from France for his little dog, it's very old...

Although it's burnt, but the colour and pattern are right...

How good

So that means Doyle wasn't taken away!?

Would the criminal be...

Oh, from what you were saying...

That's right... there's a great probability that the criminal hid him in this big house!

Still in this house...

Look at that!

Mm?

But the child's words doesn't seem unreasonable...

Ah, no! It's just....

Hey hey! Are you suspecting us?

Next to the incinerator there are a pair of a women styles shoes!!

If it was her, she wouldn't be that careless and leave her shoes here! And say, it's too obvious to take the shoes from the house to the back garden!?

It won't be....

Wh, what....

That's very obvious! When you walked over to the incinerator, you didn't want your feet to get dirty with mud, so you took your shoes from the main door to here!

That's mine.... how come?

Ye, yes....

Miss Hasuki have you been here 1 or 2 times before?

Why don't we have a more serious search for Doyle!

That's impossible!?

But in the middle when she was going back, she smelt the smell of the collar being burnt so she was shocked, then she dropped the shoes from her mouth?

Then you could have trained that shepherd dog to bring your shoes from the front door to here, and after to take them back to the original place!?

The nose of a dog is 100 times better than a human!

I thought he found him

Looks like he also knows that Doyle like this blue cushion!

A blue cushion?

Woof

カ コ ク

I remember just awhile ago there was 2 blue cushions...

Eh? How strange...

No, but the opposite...

May I ask have Arthur tried to hide some shoes before?

It still couldn't work!

Plus this one then there will be 3...

But he is really clever!

Now that he has grown up and understand these things, he doesn't do that anymore...

The time when he was a puppy... every time when I stood up, he thought I was going to take him for a walk in the park, he would run around in circles at the main door, he knew how to take my shoes from the shoe rack and waited for me... it's the trainers I like to wear while taking a stroll....

Why don't you have another sniff of Doyle's smell!

He is very different from others!!

Looks like he is thinking about something...

But why is he stopping in front of the living room?

He's got some clues!

Ah!

フフ...

Ah...

アハハ

Found Doyle!

This time it'll work!

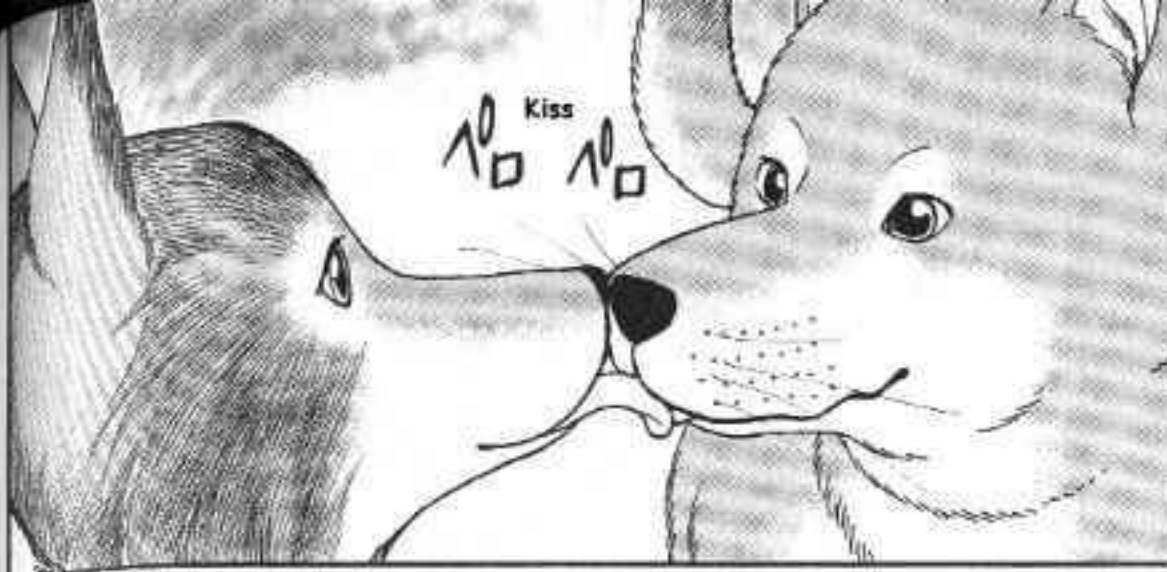

Doyle is going away!!

Eh? He's going outside?

He's going towards the main door!!

ククク...

It's a very painful thing...

Worrying about one day being discovered, living in the days of fear...

That's right...

But Doyle maybe shivering in someplace that he hid, how sad!

Nothing... I'm just trying to teach them that everything isn't that optimistic, and they should know the dangerous situation they're in....

How are you?

Hey, don't be like this!

If my identity was uncovered then, me and you, and all of them would....

I don't know how to say it, but I'm certain that in that hijack of the bus there was a person from the organisation!

I could also know...

Just like your sense of smell where you could distinguish those kind of people...

What? What have you got to say that?

Don't worry! Your identity won't be uncovered...

I also have the sense of a detectivell

Those people whose minds are full of killings...

No...

What's that expression.... you think

I'm lying?

I believe that my senses are more accurate than yours... last time on that bus, I didn't feel that someone was going to harm you...

Ah,
ha...

I can relax now...

The start of Doyle
disappearing to the end...

No matter what, let's think again...

Then after we went to the Japanese style room, and we found that Doyle wasn't there, everyone then separated to searched all over the place...

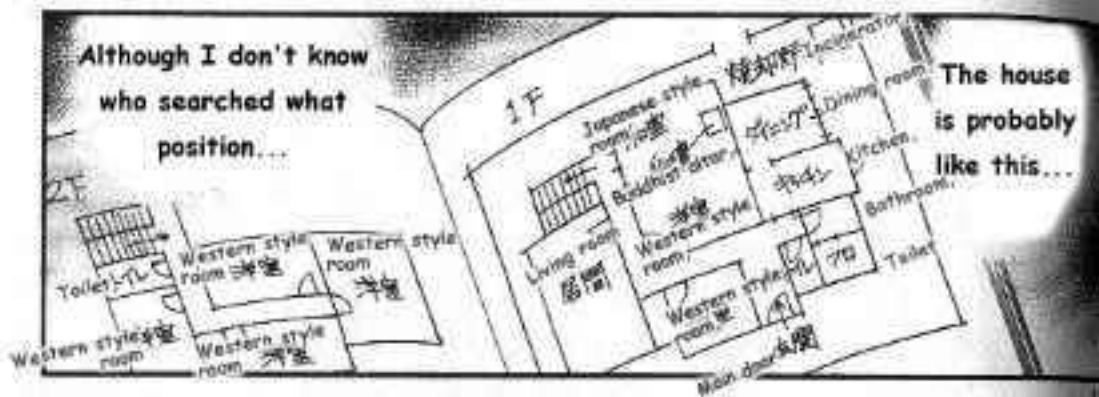

After, we all followed Mr. Kanou to the kitchen to take the cheesecake...

When Doyle heard the clock rang at midday 12 o'clock, he thought it was tea time, he went towards to Japanese style room, he left out sight then...

Although I don't know who searched what position...

It's only a small dog, but if you hide it underneath your top it still will be discovered...

And to hide him inside this house, when leaving how can he be taken away?

But how can you hide him? Even if you find him when we were searching and hid him away, what if he barked at the time...

Move houses?

Maybe...

He must knew that you were going to move so he didn't want to leave...

No... the big clock Mr. Tsunashima wanted will be moved tomorrow, the hifi Miss Hasuki wanted will have to wait ten days, the day before I move, when I don't need it, she will come and get it then...

Is it the same for others?

May I ask... you said you were moving soon, so the things you don't need we can have it, we can take it today?

Ah, yes...

Miss Tosabayashi came without invitation, I believe she came to take away the vase...

The reason both of them came today is to see the antique that came from Nando...

That vase I think is in the living room!

The hifi that is to be taken away in ten days time has no space to hide a pet...

Gutted!

Will Doyle...

Would it be in the vase...

Eh? That clock is five minutes slower...

Ah?

It can't hide a dog either...

The big clock in the Japanese style room...

When I looked at the clock last time...

Wait...

How strange... it hasn't been slow since it was cleaned...

It's like a kind of chemical fibre....

Eh? What's this thing that looks like cotton?

Incinerator!!

In...

Wait... talking about that, where did I also see this before...

This kind of material, it was also on the blue cushion that Arthur took out...

This is....

That's right,
this is a soundproof material, and also is a material used for sounds!!

When I was searching before I thought it was an ordinary rubbish...

Was Doyle really put in there and burnt to death?

What is it?
Conan!

The criminal did use this...

So it is...

I know where Doyle is...

Conan!

And even the identity of the criminall!

And the method of hiding him plus the purpose...
